

Anders Kvanta is a professor in Ophthalmology at Karolinska Institutet and senior consultant in vitreoretinal surgery at St. Erik Eye Hospital. He has published more than 70 original studies on translational retinal research ranging from angiogenesis to gene- and cell therapy. Professor Kvanta is principal investigator and lead researcher in clinical gene therapy and stemcell-based trials for retinitis pigmentosa and age-related macular degeneration.